

MARKET CLOSE

Canada

- The S&P/TSX Composite decreased 0.24% on the week, led by a decrease of 5.92% in the Health Care sector.
- Canada's gross domestic product rose a ninth-straight time in February, increasing 0.8%, according to Statistics Canada. The economy is on track to grow at an annualized pace of more than 4% in the first quarter, which is twice the pace the Bank of Canada had been projecting as recently as January.

United States

- The S&P/500 Composite increased 0.06% on the week.
- Initial unemployment claims increased by 14,000 to 202,000 in the week ended March 26, according to the US Labor Department. The rise in applications likely reflects the choppiness of the data week to week, as employers are desperately trying to retain workers and attract new ones. Claims – which hit the lowest level since 1969 in the prior period – have been trending downward for most of the year alongside declining COVID-19 cases, and the combination of dwindling savings and decades-high inflation is raising the financial incentive to work.
